

Fellowship Document

Introduction- WHY and NEED

- Statistics/Facts based
- Set questions

What are we offering?

- A year long fellowship: Integrate the vision, mission within what is fellowship and apply the knowledge in to practice
- Our Model
- Benefits of the offering
- How are we different

Who are we?

- Introduce Aatma Prakash
- Invitation

Send in the existing research papers/fellowship documents and details:

There is significant concern within the professional psychology education for quality student training. Imbalance between availability of such programs and the number of students applying for positions available is quite evident. It highlights the need for fellowship programs that can become part of established quality assurance structures in professional psychology.

Fellowships represent a valuable opportunity for both organizations and young leaders to build insight and experience within the non-profit and philanthropic sectors—and within issue areas significant to the specific region. Through the process, young leaders often hone a strong desire to serve the people and the non-profit sector in this region.

Benefits inherent in creating a fellowship program include contributing to the field of psychology, providing opportunities for professional development, increasing service provision, recruitment and retention of staff, and improving the quality and fulfilling the mission of an agency.

In addition to providing needed fellowships for current and future graduate students, an agency that develops a fellowship can help maintain quality control within the profession by ensuring that professionals entering the field are competent. The provision of quality fellowship program helps produce psychologists that will provide quality care to their patients/clients and carry on the goals and ideals of the profession.

The framework of the fellowship program is organized around individual modules, each of which represents a core component related to the fellowship program. These arrangements are mutually beneficial, as fellows are tasked with research, and special projects alongside program officers while exploring the philanthropic field, contributing their enthusiasm and talent, and strengthening the foundation.

EXPLORE

Scope: Fellows at a time work in committed organizations such as schools, colleges, health care centres; fellows alternate each cycle to serve in different projects. ,,

- Inner strengths and interests (subject, place, target age, zone, community)
- Rotation – 100%
- Ground work/setting base – designing work, data collection , research , conceptual formation
- Reflective report- I
- insights & learning

LEARN

The scholar's time will be spent in a specific work area assigned to them based on their review from Phase one of the program.

- Training program
- Innovation – creative profiling (commitment)
- 50% exploration
- 50% training in the organisation, different projects.
- Design & execute a module – performance matrix

EARN

Phase three of the program is to implement the program to reduce the loopholes & make an effort to reduce the same to bring about an increased awareness in the area of mental health.

- Come up with a plan of action to complete the process of fellowship program of a year.
- Identify loopholes related to process in the particular organisation (from observation and checking with the respective organisation)
- Things you can do to reduce that, necessary measures.
- Discuss with AP team and implement it as the final test.